

2019 PINOT BLANC Old Mission Peninsula

Of the sisters Pinot, much has been sung. Noir is the popular cheerleader and Gris is the brooding artist. Blanc is the prodigal daughter off on an adventure soon to return with all the confidence, grace, and worldly presence of a benevolent leader.

Pinot Blanc is often assumed to be a “blender” for large wine blends with multiple varieties, or at best, an unassuming white wine. Not so with Michigan grown Pinot Blanc. This grape loves our cool climate and sandy soils. It is able to ripen an expression of powerful aromatics and intense fruity length while maintaining a buzzing acidity which keeps it fresh.

We expect this Pinot Blanc to develop more complexity in the bottle over the next two years.
